Cash flow

The sales in May were lower than predicted £5,344 against £8,500. We were 206 boat nights down at the end of May which would have generated about £2,500 income. The cost of the CCTV is under Capital Expenditure a total of £3594 split equally over May and June. The contingency fund for the launch has been moved to December from June.

Replacement Reserves –

A suggested formula to calculate the replacement of large capital assets was presented to the committee, copy attached. It was suggested that the inflationary figure should be set at 3% and should be reviewed annually at the budget meeting to ensure that it is line with current figures.

Andrew Matthews proposed that we amend our budget policy to include the following:

“In particular the Authority shall establish a Replacement Reserve to ensure sufficient funds are available to replace major fixed assets at the end of their useful lives. This will be done using the following formula; [(Number of years to replacement x y%) x replacement cost] + replacement cost.

Where:

Number of years to replacement = the number of years of useful life left in an asset as determined by the Authority from time to time.

-y% = a simple percentage rate of interest being 3% or such other [percentage as the Authority shall determine from time to time reflecting market conditions.

- replacement cost = the 2016 replacement cost of an asset updated from time to time as determined by the Authority figures and that we should accept this new system of allocating reserves, it was seconded by Martyn Oates and unanimously agreed.”
